

Ownership of large scale media are already too tightly controlled. Don't rely on pure numbers of outlets when considering regulatory change. It is only the largest outlets that really matter, and their diversity of ownership should not be reduced. Do not allow media ownership to become more concentrated. Right wing assertions aside, government does have a responsibility for regulation that includes ensuring a free and diverse press.